

What are your COVID-19 Testing options?

A PCR test is a nose swab that can find the genes from COVID-19 and is the most accurate test to tell if someone currently has COVID-19.

The IgG antibody test is a blood draw that looks at COVID-19 IgG antibodies, which your body usually makes after being sick. It usually takes two to three weeks to show up in the blood.

Take this quiz to find what's right for you.

I want to find out if I...

